There’s something about Northwest Point that feels like you’ve stepped slightly off the map, in the best possible way. This second-floor, ocean-facing one-bedroom condo captures that feeling perfectly. With 789 sq ft of bright, open living space and uninterrupted views of the turquoise water, it’s the kind of place where mornings start slowly and evenings stretch out on the balcony with the trade winds drifting through. The unit is fully furnished and turnkey, so you can arrive and immediately settle in, whether that means making it your own island escape or welcoming guests looking for exactly this kind of quiet beachfront experience. It has long been a strong performer in the vacation rental market, with the resort earning TripAdvisor recognition over the years for guest satisfaction and consistency. Northwest Point Resort is known for its sense of calm. A large, newly refreshed pool anchors the property, alongside a hot tub, generous sun deck, and communal BBQ area that naturally draws people together. There’s a seasonal on-site restaurant, full WiFi throughout, and complimentary watersports equipment for days when the water is simply too inviting to resist. Kite-surfers in particular love this stretch of beach, the conditions right off shore are some of the best on the island. While the setting feels wonderfully secluded, you’re still just a short 20 minute drive from everything, supermarkets, restaurants and the full rhythm of Providenciales when you want it. And when you don’t, you have miles of open beach and that endless horizon. This is easy, understated beachfront living. Peaceful, practical, and quietly special. A place to unwind, to invest wisely, and to own a small but meaningful piece of Turks and Caicos.
